CONFLICT MINERALS AND EXTENDED MINERALS (COBALT, MICA) DECLARATION

As a manufacturer of assembled electronic devices, TREMOL ES EM DI LTD. is aware of our obligations with regards to national and international laws and regulations regarding Conflict Minerals.

TREMOL ES EM DI LTD. does not directly source or process conflict minerals such as tin, tantalum, tungsten, gold and their derivatives or mica, cobalt, its salts and related substances. Conflict minerals mentioned above are contained in our products in the form of solder materials, as contents in metal alloys, electronic components, batteries, and PCB surface finishes.

Mica is an important raw material of effect pigments, which are used in automotive and industrial coatings and plastics, as well as in the cosmetics and food industries. Mica minerals appears a part of the PCBA / PCB and plastic parts of the products that TREMOL ES EM DI LTD. provides to its customers.

We are committed to ensuring the health, safety and protection of people, who come into contact with our products and business, and we require high social, environmental and human rights standards among our suppliers. Managing our obligations in relation to Conflict Minerals is a part of our corporate responsibility.

Therefore, as part of our reasonable due diligence, TREMOL ES EM DI LTD. has contacted component suppliers within our supply chain to verify their continued compliance with applicable regulations. The Conflict Minerals Reporting Template (CMRT) is created by the Responsible Minerals Initiative (RMI) supporting companies to deliver accurate information to their customers about mineral country of origin and the smelters and refiners they use. After a change in the Conflict Minerals regulations of the legislation, TREMOL ES EM DI LTD requires from its suppliers and accordingly provides to its customers the latest version of the CMRT template.

Based on the information we received from suppliers we declare that our products contain Conflict Minerals & Extended minerals sourced from conflict-free areas.

Sincerely,

Kiril Yanneff,
Executive Director
